Community
Chest Idea
Is Growing in Local Field

IN our Saturday's editorial we called attention to the fact that many worthwhile movements are started, but, for some reason, never get far. Maybe one of the causes is the lack of publicity. We have tried to do our part in fostering all projects which we felt, after investigating, would be of benefit to our city.

In line with this policy we want to again bring up the matter of a "Community Chest for Glendale." While the fall is the proper time to initiate this movement, there is so much preliminary work to do before the plan can be inaugurated that it behooves us to begin making preparations throughout the summer. It is our opinion that a majority of our business men would welcome some relief from the constant solicitation of funds.

THE citizens of Glendale are generous to a fault and have never failed to support any project of merit, but they realize the fact that a great deal of busy men's time is taken up by each organization putting forth individual drives. They feel that if the organizations would go into a chest plan, their donations would go much farther and the constant drives would stop.

From the data which we have secured we find that the Community Chest idea is growing. That the amounts collected and number of persons giving have increased enormously. That all worthwhile organizations are properly taken care of. That the citizens are kept in closer contact with the social agencies.

LONG BEACH has started to brag about her gain in population, but she has nothing on us. As the fastest growing city in its class in the United States at the last census we had something to be proud of. Our gain since then has been phenomenal. It keeps up from month to month. It is estimated that the population today is close to 40,000, and at least 1200 being added each month. This gain in population is gratifying, but the fact that we continue our building activity is better. Up to date, our building permits are over four million and ten days to be added before the month's total is reached.

LONG BEACH claims to be gaining 3000 a month. This is a wonderful gain and we congratulate Long Beach. In their case, however, we presume some of the gain is accounted for by being located on the ocean and tourists coming for the summer. In Glendale's case most of the gain is accounted for by actual home-seekers.

R. B. IRVING IS UNJUSTLY ACCUSED

Mrs. R. B. Irving of Glendale states that there has been some confusion in the report which has been made of an automobile collision which occurred last week in Eagle Rock, in which it was stated that R. B. Irving of Glendale was the driver of an automobile which collided with that of J. W. Whitlock. According to Mrs. Irving it was the automobile driven by Mrs. J. W. Whitlock which collided with that driven by R. B. Irving.

Mrs. Whitlock not only drove in to Mr. Irving's machine, a new Willys Knight, but she promised to pay for the damage she did, according to Mr. Irving.

"If I had been speeding," said Mr. Irving, "I could have been arrested that corner before she left him. I was going slow. Had I any idea she was going to hit my rear end I would have got out of the way."

BANDITS' PRISONERS ASK INTERVENTION

[By Associated Press]
SHANGHAI, May 21.—Dr. H. Martens, a physician, returning from a relief mission to the Shantung mountains where fourteen foreigners are held by bandits, reported today that the consensus of opinion among the prisoners is that foreign intervention was the only possible means of effecting their release.

The bandits, said Dr. Martens, discredit and distrust Chinese officials and are eager to deal with foreigners.

BLOODHOUND CAR IS INTRODUCED TO CITY BY SERGEANT ROYLE

Take notice, all ye crooks, highwaymen, thugs, bootleggers, sneakthieves, auto stealers, and undesirables in general—

Detective Sergeant W. J. Royle, the man with a great big badge—all polished up and ready to go—has a brand new automobile.

Does that mean anything? "W. J." is one of those fellows who "sneaks" quietly up to you, pats you on the shoulder and says:

"Where 'y' going, son?"

You make explanations, but "W. J." no use, "W. J." got you and up you go.

But here's the point—think how much more noiselessly this sleuth can "sneak" now than he could before. This new car is equipped with everything along the sleuth line known to modern science—even a silencer. That should spell something.

This new "tub" can make a 100 per without trembling, says Royle, and she don't begin to work pretty till she gets to going 200. Realize what that means?

So hereafter, Glendale will be a spotless town—morally. The citizens may now expect big things from "W. J."

Huntley's Condition Is Slightly Better

According to information given out this morning at the Glendale Research hospital, J. G. Huntley, who was injured last week when thrown from a horse while he was horseback riding, is "holding his own."

K. C. TEAM WINS FROM EASTMAN TIGERS

Scores 5-3 on Santa Monica Outfit; Making It 11 Games Straight

After breaking Sunland's winning streak of eight straight games last Sunday, the Glendale K. C. team joined the Eastman Tigers of Santa Monica, breaking their winning streak of eleven straight by taking a hard fought ten innings game 5-3.

Al Seiser pitched a consistent game, allowing only seven scattered hits. Due to the heavy wind that blew all afternoon, R. Doll pitched a hard ball to left field which allowed the Tiger three runs, but he redeemed himself with the stick, getting three hits out of five trips, counting for you on the evening of May 24th. I enjoyed my engagement so much with you last winter that I am looking forward with pleasure to greeting your audience again. Charles Cadman has been good enough to play my accompaniments and I am enclosing a list of my numbers. With best wishes, believe me, Cordially, Carl Gantvoort.

Mrs. Jones considers this a great compliment to Glendale audiences, especially since Mr. Gantvoort, as well as Mr. Cadman and Margaret Messer Morris are donating their services for the scholarship fund benefit.

Miss Hazel Linkogel will play a group of violin numbers, accompanied by Henry Grace, a junior club artist also. The high school musical organizations will also participate and the Junior Music Club quartet.

Mr. Cadman is noted for his enthusiasm and the splendid work he has done in behalf of the junior clubs in the state federation of music clubs, having advanced this department further than ever before in its history. He is chairman of education, which includes the work of the junior clubs. Mr. Cadman is an honorary member of the Glendale Music Club. It was his wish that the young artists be featured on the program Thursday night, as Miss Linkogel is an artist member of the Junior Music Club.

Tickets for the concert are on sale at the music stores, high school, chamber of commerce and intermediate school. The price is 50c for students and 50c and $1 for adults. The program in detail will be announced later.

ENGLAND WITHOUT PREMIER

[By Associated Press]
LONDON, May 21.—Great Britain bids fair to remain without a premier through today at least. King George, who is in Aldershot, had up to this afternoon asked no one to accept the premiership in succession to Andrew Bonar Law, who resigned yesterday, so far as known to the public. The king, it is said, has no present intention of curtailing his visit to Aldershot, which is expected to last most of the week. Meanwhile two most promising prospects for head of the government, Earl Curzon and Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, are in the country for the Whitsunday holidays and plan to remain away until Wednesday.

The physicians of Andrew Bonar Law this afternoon issued the following statement:

"Mr. Bonar Law had a slight operation on the throat today. Otherwise his condition is good."

BRITAIN'S HEALTHY BUDGET REINSTATES WOMEN POLICE

LONDON, May 21.—Women are to be reinstated on the metropolitan police force and with increased authority. For the first time since they obtained recognition they will have the same power of arrest as the men police.

They will not be expected to perform any duties which may be beyond their physical strength, and also they will not be sent to tackle burglars in empty houses or dark alleys.

There were originally 114 women constables in London. They were organized during the war. But the Geddes committee, looking around for something to save money on, spotted them and recommended their disbandment. The home secretary, however, decided to retain 20 of them as a nucleus with which to make another start when there was a little more money in the national exchequer.

INJURED BY CAR, JAMES JOHNSTON DIES IN L. A.

He Was Enroute to Iowa When Thrown by Street Trolley Car

James W. Johnston, brother of Henry Johnston of 111 North E. street, Glendale, with whom he made his home for the past two years, passed away this morning, May 21, 1923, at a Los Angeles hospital as the result of injuries received when he was thrown from a street car in Los Angeles or at Tuesday.

Mr. James Johnston was taken to Los Angeles Tuesday in an automobile by Henry Johnston. The former was boarding a street car on his way to the Santa Fe depot when the car started, throwing him to the pavement and breaking his left hip. James Johnston was planning to take a train for Cedar Rapids, Iowa, on a visit. Passengers took him to the county hospital. Henry Johnston and family were not aware of the accident until Thursday, when they received a telegram from the hospital.

James Johnston was 77 years of age and had made his home with his brother since the death of his wife some two years ago. He also leaves two sisters and a half-brother, Mrs. Hattie M. Johnston of Glendale, Mrs. W. R. C. Reynolds of Long Beach and George J. Phelps of Los Angeles.

An inquest is to be held over the body, which is at the parlors of the Jewel City Undertaking company.

COMMENCEMENT OF FIRST BIG WORK TO BE MARKED

Baker Iron Works to Give Dinner to Representative Citizens

Officers of the Baker Iron Works are paying a delicate compliment to Glendale in the dinner which they are giving Thursday evening, May 24, in the banquet hall of the Chamber of Commerce to representative citizens of this city to the number of about 75 to celebrate the commencement of the first six-story steel office and bank building in the "fastest growing city in the United States." When one stops to think, it is an event which marks a new era in the growth of Glendale which can be appreciated by such a concern as the Baker Iron Works. Guests will meet their hosts in the offices of the Security Trust and Savings bank, for whom the new building is being constructed, at the northeast corner of Brand and Broadway.

This structure, which will be beautiful and modern, will be the pioneer in the new period in Glendale's history and in years to come the invitations which are being received will be treasured as historic souvenirs.

IRRIGATION MAY DRY UP BIG NEBRASKA RIVER

[By Associated Press]
COLUMBUS, Neb., May 21.—Contemplated irrigation projects and hydro-electric projects in eastern Colorado and western Nebraska will leave a dry bed of sand where the Platte river now flows, according to L. J. McAllister, Chicago engineer, who is making preliminary surveys for irrigation projects in this territory.

"I have discovered," said Mr. McAllister, "that the volume of water in the Platte river has been reduced more than 35 per cent during the summer in the past twenty years by irrigation in the west, and more than 27 per cent in the winter by hydro-electric projects. This reduction in the water volume reaches to the point where the Loup river flows into the Platte.

"The contemplated irrigation projects in the west, as well as the hydro-electric projects, if carried on at the same ratio as they have been in the past few years, will probably dry the stream entirely between Grand Island and Schuyler within the next ten years, except during seasons when the heavy rainfalls of spring and fall bring an unusually heavy volume of water down the river bed."

SPEED JINX OUT FOR TROUBLE ON SUNDAY

Epidemic of Smash-ups and Many Injuries Results

The demon-speed, had his inning yesterday. As a result several residents of Glendale and nearby points are confined to their homes and the sanitarium on account of injuries, several automobiles are badly damaged and two arrests have been made.

As a result of a pile-up of machines on San Fernando road near Milford street, Mrs. Louis Capra and Mrs. Harry Cline, both of 732 Alexander street, are suffering from cuts and bruises at their home. The accident occurred at 9:30 o'clock last night and the machines were operated by A. P. Nicolette of Burbank, and Louis Capra of Los Angeles.

As a result of this smashup Nicolette was arrested and a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated was placed against him, according to Judge Lowe. His bail was fixed at $300, which was paid by L. A. Beardon, and Nicolette was released. The bail of Nicolette was later raised to $500 cash and $1000 property bond by Judge Lowe, who, upon hearing some of the facts of the case, considered it more than ordinarily serious.

Immediately after the accident the injured ladies were hurried to the Glendale sanitarium where their injuries were attended to; however they were removed to their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ortega of Burbank, were cut about the face and neck by broken glass and their two daughters were slightly injured when a machine in which they were riding, driven by Hugo Child, 203 Alameda street, Burbank, collided with a machine operated by the accident taking place at the corner of San Fernando road and Wilson at 11 o'clock last night. After being treated at the Glendale sanitarium the injured people were taken to their homes.

Dureja was arrested by Officers Armer and Baugh and was placed in jail No. 1. He is being held on a charge of reckless driving, his bail being fixed at $100, according to the Glendale police department.

Dr. Charles Milton Nelson of Los Angeles sustained a sprained wrist when the car he was driving collided with a machine driven by a person whose name could not be learned, the accident occurring at the corner of Lexington and Jackson at 5:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Motorcycles driven by Joseph Felix Lopez, 1111 1/2 North Olive avenue, Burbank, and George Schultz, 115-A North Olive avenue, Burbank, collided at the corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Schultz sustained a sprained wrist, which was taken care of by physicians at the Glendale sanitarium.

SCOUT EXECUTIVE BENNER RETURNS FROM NORTH

Yosemite Is Good But Glendale Is Better, Says He

"We do not appreciate Glendale until we are away from it," declared Scout Executive Harold Benner this morning. "I passed through many towns during the week I was away, but none of them in any way compare with our own Glendale."

Mr. Benner returned Sunday evening from Yosemite national park, where he attended the third biennial conference of Scout executives from California, Arizona, Utah and Nevada.

"Yosemite is wonderful," he declared, "and if we had gotten nothing else out of our conference but the wonderful inspiration we received as we stood on inspiration point looking down into the valley, it was certainly worth the whole trip right there. But our conference was a big success and the best that has ever been held in regard to two hundred men, and attendance was only one of the marked features of the conference."

"The keynote of our conference," declared Mr. Benner, "was the promulgation of good fellowship and team work among the Scout executives. We were all imbued with the spirit of service—a keener and nobler desire to serve God and our community."

"I have received a broader and more comprehensive perspective of my job as a Scout executive, and have been thoroughly converted and sold to the proposition that the Boy Scouts of America is not an organization unto itself, but instead a great world-wide movement with a practical program that lends itself admirably to the program of the church, the home and the school."

At one time the executives attended a session of the high school principals in a body, according to Mr. Benner. He met both Mr. Wayne and Mr. Gentry and it seemed good to see someone from home.

The conference program was much alive to the present day conditions in the community life and various problems were attacked with considerable energy and thought by the various speakers.

One feature of the conference was the Boy Scout model camp, which was built in two afternoons by the executives as a memorial to Theodore Roosevelt. This camp will be one of the permanent exhibits of Camp Curry.

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS OF LOS ANGELES WANTS TIME TO STUDY

ASKS FOR ONE WEEK

Consulting Engineer to File Data With Department Meanwhile

Action on the sewer proposition, made some time ago by the Glendale council to the Los Angeles council was, when the matter was taken up by the latter body at 11 o'clock this morning, postponed for one week.

This action was taken on the request of the board of public utilities of that city that the matter be laid over until a full investigation of the question might be made by H. A. Van Normand, consulting engineer for the board.

Next Monday morning at 11 o'clock is the time set for the next hearing on this matter.

The hearing this morning before the Los Angeles council was attended by Councilmen Hall, Horn, Kimlin and Davis; Jesse Smith and W. E. Hewitt of the Glendale chamber of commerce, and representatives from Eagle Rock and the Atwater tract. Mayor Robinson was unable to attend on account of illness.

GLENDALE LOSSES TO LANKERSHIM

Game, Protested to Managers of the Valley League

THE SCORE IS 3 TO 2

Three Hundred Fans from Glendale See Brilliant Clash

Lankershim won from Glendale by the score of 3 to 2 at Lankershim yesterday. The Glendale boys put up a game of ball that any big league team would envy, but due to many decisions by the umpire it was impossible for the Glendale team to win.

Three hundred Glendale fans attended the game.

Manager Hoidler has filed protest for this game. He said: "We are not hard losers or anything like that, but we make an awful fuss when we lose in this manner."

"Walt" pitched a neat game, but in the early frames they seemed to like his speed ball and kicked him for most of their hits, including a well deserved homer by Prince. "Walt" then changed tactics to slow curves and from then on they could do nothing.

Charles Flanders comes in for a great amount of praise for his work at second base, he handling four assists without a miss, including one that looked very much impossible and which can be termed "the prettiest play of the season."

"Sparky" Wilson also played a bang-up game at shortstop, handling two hard assists without a miss and slamming out two hard hits, including a 2-base wallop in four times at bat.

As a whole the team played great ball from start to finish and kept their wonderful fighting spirit till the last man was out, which is a great credit to them.

MODERATO PROVED GENEROUS HOST TO VETERANS

Arthur W. Scudder of 320 West Harvard street was one of the Glendale G. A. R. men who attended the state encampment at Modesto last week. He describes the trip as follows:

"I left Glendale at 8 a. m. on May 14 on the S. P. Had a most enjoyable ride with a bunch of wideawake G. A. R. people and their relatives through an interesting part of the state. The heat on the desert stretches has somewhat oppressive, but cooler weather came as the evening shadows fell. None of us who took this wonderful trip will ever forget the splendid people of Fresno and the sumptuous feast they provided for us that evening."

"We found Modesto to be most generous in her welcome. Large delegations from all the patriotic organizations were present, and this state convention assumed the appearance of a national affair. The spirit of generosity and good will animating the great central section of the state was shown, not only in the greetings in cities passed through by convention trains, but in free auto joy rides between Modesto and surrounding towns, notably Turlock, where a royal entertainment was provided for us."

"That the greatest interest was taken in the encampment was evidenced by the size of the attendance every day, even the last one."

"The work accomplished by these seasoned veterans of the great Civil War, compared well with that of any equal number of ex-soldiers of any of the succeeding conflicts in which our country has engaged."

"It is the intellectual output of such gatherings of citizen soldiers, moulding public opinion on many important matters, that distinguishes our nation's defenders above those of any other country in the world."

REFUND IS DECISION

[By Associated Press]
WASHINGTON, May 21.—The treasury today revoked its decision of two weeks ago declaring exempt from income taxation corporation dividends distributed out of profits or earnings accrued prior to March 1, 1913. The ruling, officials said, would have resulted in the refunding of many millions in taxes.

NEW CONCERN TO HANDLE PEERLESS IN GLENDALE

Full Line of Motor Cars to be Shown in Stock Room

Warren, Heyden & Anderson, distributors for the New Peerless motor cars in Pasadena, had their formal opening of the Glendale branch this week, exhibiting the full line of New Peerless cars in both open and closed models. This is the first complete showing of the New Peerless in this territory, and the generous response to the announcements sent out was very gratifying and indicative of the popularity of this make of car and the position it holds in this community where many are in service.

Temporary salesrooms have been opened at 145 South Brand boulevard, formerly occupied by the Dodge agency, pending the erection of a new building which will be devoted exclusively to the sales and service of Peerless cars. This will give Warren, Heyden & Anderson one of the finest sales and service stations in Southern California.

Factory representatives were in attendance and explained in detail the many new and improved features embodied in the new Peerless, also, the remarkable progress made by the factory since passing into the control of R. H. Collins and his associates. It was pointed out that while many changes had been made in the new cars, basically the theory and construction of the new Peerless was the same as had been manufactured so successfully for many years, that it was the same rugged and durable chassis and perfected 8-cylinder motor, refined and improved.

"The new Peerless is a longer and lower car," says Frank E. Warren, manager of the Glendale branch of this company, "the wheels smaller and the tires larger. Radiator, hood and body are modernized and beautiful in design and appointments. The chassis frame is deeper and stronger, braced in many places to insure rigidity and for prevention of body distortions. The open cars carry the new Peerless permanent top—a pleasing combination of uninterupted line beauty and practical utility. Potentiated door-opening curtains fit snugly to the sides of the car and the rigid frame of the top and give many of the advantages enjoyed in the enclosed cars."

"Peerless sales records in Southern California continue to be broken following the arrival of a month ago of a special train load of Peerless cars and another train load due in Los Angeles soon. Despite the fact that there were 129 cars in the first trainload, these were all sold within 15 days and during the interim ordinary the fashion show under the direct supervision of Mr. Hatz. Kelly's orchestra, which proved to be a most popular organization throughout the evening, numerous requests being rendered, following the drawing, consisted of A. M. Kelly, violin; M. Coffman, piano; C. Donaldson, clarinet; D. Cramp-ton, drums; R. Jones, banjo; C. Pick, cornet; H. Tobie, trombone, and E. Floyd, saxophone. This group of accomplished musicians also assisted with the entertainment furnished during the afternoon. Dainty little Adeline Wood-bury also received her share of popular attention, and was called upon for encores. She also presented a reading. One of her cleverest numbers was the saxophone number, "Got to See Mamma Every Night."

Royal Sawtelle, secretary of the New England Furniture company, in speaking of the successful opening, stated that the management is most grateful to the people of Glendale for the gracious reception.

"We were unable to keep a definite count of all of the people who visited our store Saturday afternoon and evening," he said, "but I should judge that there were at least 3,000 people there, altogether. We have tried to extend them to our store, and they have responded very heartily. It gives us a deeper feeling than we have had before, toward the public of Glendale, for they have shown that they have taken an active interest in the new business house which we have located here."

Shipments have been coming regularly. More than 60 per cent of the second big shipment now on the way has been sold. Owners are the cars' best advertisers for they are so pleased with the performance of the new Peerless that it is only natural for them to endorse over the subject to their friends and acquaintances. With the peak of the season right at hand in the middle west and east, we realize that our chances of getting further shipments are growing less and less, and we predict the time is not far away when we will be compelled to accept orders by rotation only if the present demand is sustained. Sensing this situation we prepared for any immediate shortage of cars by placing our orders in advance and secured them in carload lots direct from the factory."

629,188 TONS OF RELIEF GIVEN TO RUSSIA BY U. S.

MOSCOW, Russia, May 21.—By Mail.—Figures just compiled show that the American Relief administration from the beginning of its operations in Russia in the fall of 1921 up to January 1, 1923, handled 629,188 tons of relief supplies, employ for that purpose 40,046 railroad cars.

Distribution of these supplies, which smashed the biggest figure in history and reached 10,500,000 people, indicates that while the A. R. A. reached millions of adults last summer with 209,949 tons of corn, it did not in any way slow up its child-feeding program as it had by the end of last year put 326,536 tons of child-feeding commodities down the throats of Russia's hungry children.

Other items on the huge shipment campaign of the supply division of the A. R. A. are 45,356 tons of cornmeal, 15,444 tons of rye, 15,563 tons of hospital and medical supplies, and 12,277 tons of miscellaneous supplies.

These supplies were received through nine points of entry into Russia and trans-shipped via two A. R. A. control stations to every section of the country, as far east as the Urals and almost the entire length of the Volga river.

LITTLE FOLKS WIN APPLAUSE FROM L. A. AUDIENCE

A crowded house marked the Children's Society Vaudeville entertainment presented by the pupils of Pearl Keller Brattain, director of the Pearl Keller School of Dancing and Dramatic Art of Glendale, which was given Saturday afternoon at the Philharmonic Auditorium, Los Angeles, for the benefit of the Crippled Children's Guild of the Orthopedic Hospital-School. The program represented a great deal of time and effort put into it by Mrs. Brattain and the children, but they entered into it with spirit, knowing that the little crippled folks, who cannot help themselves, were to be benefited. Propose to Raise a Missions' Publishing Fund at Conference Seventh-day Adventist churches throughout the United States and Canada are planning to cooperate with the general conference of the denomination, which has its headquarters in Takoma Park, D. C., in the Big Week Campaign from May 27 to June 2, for the purpose of raising a Missions' Publishing fund for the advancement of the gospel in literature form in many foreign countries.

This fund will be utilized for the building of publishing houses in Turkey, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Yugoslavia, and Rumania, and for increasing the equipment in the publishing houses of the denomination in France, Argentina, Brazil, India, China, Japan, Korea, Malaysia and the Philippines.

These publishing plans will be located in all the principal language areas of the world. This plan is being devised, according to Elder J. H. McEachern, associate secretary of the publishing department, "so that the people of these countries can have the gospel literature not only in their own languages, but manufactured under the protection of their own governments."

Both the home missionary and publishing departments of the general conference have prepared leaflets telling of the needs of the publishing work in these countries and have sent copies of them out to every church in the United States and Canada, with an appeal that every member join enthusiastically in making the campaign a success.

A rally day program will be followed on May 26, the first day of the big week. Not only will all the churches co-operate in this campaign, but also the publishing houses, sanitariums, colleges, and academies, and conference office forces.

On one day of the campaign, according to Elder J. Adams Stevens, secretary of the home missionary department, "the employees in all departments of the Adventists' publishing houses will put in a full day's time at their regular lines of work, and will turn over the proceeds of their earnings that day to the big week fund."

The missionary volunteers of the denomination are also being encouraged to enter into the plan and do their part toward making it a success.

Since 1921 when the Missions' Publishing Company fund was established, considerable has been accomplished in extending this feature of the Advent movement. Elder Stevens says: "An entire new printing plant has been established in South Africa, and the equipment furnished; India has also been provided with the purchase of land for a new plant and needed facilities; and in Canada a large and well-equipped printing plant is sending out a large amount of literature constantly, which would not be in existence except for the provisions of this fund. Miehle presses have been shipped to Africa, Brazil, Korea, China and Canada. Linotypes have been shipped to the Philippines, Argentina, Brazil, France, England and Canada. Complete bindery outfits have gone to many needy countries, and substantial lump sums of money have been furnished to assist in providing books in new language areas; to say nothing of typewriters, adding machines, mailing outfits, and other printing essentials."

"The Adventists are now publishing the gospel in 101 languages. It is having been reduced to written form by Seventh-day Adventist missionaries."

'LITTLE CHURCH AROUND CORNER' AT T. D. & L.

Seeing "The Little Church Around the Corner" which was shown at the T. D. & L. Theatre yesterday, is worth while, for it is an entertainment of rare pleasure, a picture drama of the type that comes about once in a blue moon. The worthwhileness is due to the fact that some of the important actors in this Warner Brothers' production take place in a mining town—and so well is it reproduced that the illusion is perfect; you have the spirit of the strikers dramatically rendered, the mining district, streets and mines; it is all done so vividly that you think the cameraman had waited for a miners' strike before proceeding to take the picture.

PEOPLE COLD TO LAWYERS (By Associated Press) LONDON, May 21.—The high cost of litigation in England continues to spell hard times for lawyers. People prefer to settle their disputes out of court before they find themselves up to the neck in costs, or submit their disputes to arbitration, and the lawyers get no sympathy in their financial troubles from the general public.

CHALLENGE OF THE FAITH IS SUBJECT OF REV. EDMONDS

"Faith's Challenge" was the sermon subject of Rev. W. E. Edmonds at the Glendale Presbyterian Church yesterday morning. Using Romans 8:31 as the text he said that a single word is often the pivot on which infinite and eternal issues turn. A single word might throw a cloud of uncertainty upon the title of an estate of millions of dollars and render the inheritance worthless. If there be a shadow of doubt of God's being for us then the whole superstructure of hope and promise is built upon the sand. No such uncertainty exists. Not if, but since, is God's great assurance. Better to have a little with perfect title than a kingdom with a flaw in the conveyance.

That God is our salvation is the basis of all Christian faith and conduct. He is not for us because of merit on our part, but He is for us on the basis of His faithful and unchanging word. God's mercy is on your side. He loves to save the lost. His justice is on your side because Christ has paid the debt. God is therefore bound in all justice to save the soul that trusts in Christ. God's truth is for you. "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but My Word shall not pass away." The hand that wrought the mighty wonders of past ages has not lost its ancient power. Some things may not seem to be for us but let us wait until all the threads have been woven together, then we'll understand.

God is for our future. When He took us, He knew the worst in us. He has given us of His own power to meet every trial. Then why should we worry and fret? When we worry we distrust Him and that is sin. He will never fail us nor forsake us. The wonders of His love should lead us to trust Him to the limit.

THE IDEAL MAN IS SUBJECT OF DR. H. C. FUNK

"On the last Lord's day we learned that 'The woman is the glory of the man.' This morning we want to stimulate our young men to a desire for higher ideals in life, as there never was a time when there were greater possibilities for advancement," said Dr. Funk at the First Lutheran church Sunday.

"However much we may differ on the subject of an ideal woman,

I am sure that the men here will agree with me when I say that there is no such thing as an ideal man to be found today."

"Where, then, shall we go to find the ideal man? Christianity alone gives the answer. In the person of Jesus, Emerson said that every hero becomes a bore at last. But not so with Jesus Christ; for after nearly 2,000 years have passed, the most powerful microscope of criticism has failed to discover a single flaw in the character of the Nazarene. Others have gained the admiration of the multitudes for a time having surpassed their fellows in one or two things; but Jesus has excelled all men in all things. In Him dwells all the fullness of the God-head bodily, and He is the perfect man."

"God made the earth and covered it with a carpet of beautiful colors; He made the trees to bear luscious fruit, and the flowers to bloom; He made the sea to abound with fish, and the air was filled with the song of birds; all for man. The Sabbath was also made for man, with this injunction, 'Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy.'"

When a man fails in business, his wife tells the neighbors that he was too honest to succeed, but what she tells him in private is another story.

BILL PECK belongs to that class of young Americans known as go-getters; those who go out and get what they're after. He had played his part in the war, and lay bedridden for more than two years in a hospital. Prior to the war, Bill had been a lumber salesman. He is so sure that he will get a similar job after leaving the hospital that he has cards printed with his name in one corner and the name of the Ricks lumber concern of San Francisco in another. He limps a little and sets out bravely for the offices of the Ricks concern.

Shortly after interviewing Mr. Skinner, one of the heads of the firm, Bill begins to realize how quickly the world forgets. Skinner tells him that the plant is already overburdened with ex-soldiers and that he cannot place him. Meantime, Bill has attracted the attention of Mary Skinner, daughter of the man who had just refused him a job. Mary's interest in Bill is heightened when she sees him purchase an urchin's dog, at the request of the youngster whose father is about to drown the animal. The girl questions Bill, hears his story and then suggests that he go back to the office and apply to Cappy Ricks, the founder of the business. Bill takes heart again and returns and gets a job as a salesman. As a result of Skinner's ill-feeling, however, Bill is told to

This so incurs the wrath of Cappy, that he discharges Bill. The latter, however, refuses to quit and later returns with a batch of orders and the announcement that he is looking for Mary Skinner to take her to lunch. Bill wins his job back and decides to try his go-getting proclivities on Mary. Inside of four hours he has placed an engagement ring on her finger. Although Cappy Ricks is attached to Bill, he decides to make cartain that the ex-soldier is a go-getter in every sense of the word.

In order to determine this, he tells Bill of a certain vase that he wishes to get to Santa Barbara that night. Ricks says he hasn't time to get it himself and asks Bill to do so and then bring it to the station before the train leaves.
Ricks hands the go-getter written directions on how to get to the shop that has the vase, tells him to purchase it and that he will be repaid later. The directions to the shop are all wrong, and Bill, for the greater part of the day, sticks to what seems a hopeless task. He finally discovers the shop, but is dumfounded when told that the price of the vase is $3,000.

Bill has been shadowed by a crook who surreptitiously enters the shop and overhears the conversation. The crook snatches the vase and dashes with it through a rear window. Bill's faithful dog, which has stuck to him through all his troubles, gives a warning bark, and Bill takes up the pursuit.
Trailing the crook to a nearby cellar, a furious fight ensues, in which another thug takes part.
Bill finally gets the best of the pair, retrieves the vase and escapes.

Meanwhile the train has left for Santa Barbara, and Bill apparently has played a losing hand. He thinks of a former buddy, an aviator, who is the owner of a nearby aviation field. Bill gets him out of bed, and soon both are in the air in pursuit of the train.
They finally get ahead of it and make a perfect landing. Bill soaks his coat in gasoline, ignites it and uses it as a torch with which he flags the train.

Mary, with her father and Ricks, is the first to sight Bill and tells her dad that she knew all the time that Peck was a go-getter. When he hears of the trick that has been played on him, Bill is angered, but cools off when Mary leads him out to the moonlit observation platform and tells him that, in addition to winning her, he has won a job as the firm's manager in China.

EXPERTS GIVE GIBBONS A CHANCE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, May 21 (United Press).—Most of the money that will be wagered on the Dempsey-Gibbons heavyweight championship battle will be laid on how many rounds the challenger lasts against the champion.

With few exceptions, managers, boxers and wise fans think that Dempsey is sure to win, although many of them follow the natural inclination to back a champion because he is a champion.

If the right kind of odds are offered, it seems certain that gobs of dough will be taken by followers of Gibbons that Tom will stay from six to 12 rounds.

This opinion will be backed on the showing Dempsey made in his last fight with slow Bill Brennan and it is expressed in the words of William A. Brady, one of the best qualified judges of boxers in the country.

"Gibbons is a clever fellow. Dempsey is not going to rush him and win by a quick knockout. If Bill Brennan was able to stall Dempsey off for 12 rounds, Gibbons, who is younger and more clever, certainly should be able to do just as well. Gibbons is no easy mark. He is fast, clever, and he can hit with both hands. Dempsey is wide open, as Brennan showed when he almost took an ear off the champion and as Carpenter later proved when he nearly flopped him in Jersey City. One more good punch might have finished Dempsey, but the Frenchman got excited and missed the second good shot. If Brennan and Carpenter can do it, why cannot Gibbons? Brady asked.

Dan Morgan, one of the ablest managers in the business, is one of the few bold enough to predict that Gibbons will win the title from Dempsey.

"The champion has always been vastly overrated. He has never beaten a real good man, and he's going to be flopped the first time he meets a good, fast, hard-hitting opponent, and Gibbons is all of that."

U. S. SMOKED 173,317,000 PHILIPPINE CIGARS IN 1922
(By Associated Press)
MANILA, May 21.—Total exports of tobacco from the Philippine Islands during the year 1922 amounted to $8,670,000, compared with $8,282,000 in 1921, according to figures obtained from the bureau of customs.

The great bulk of the tobacco exports were in the form of cigars, which numbered 300,454,324, and were valued at $5,800,000. Of the cigar exports, the United States took 173,317,045, of more than 50 per cent of the total.

EXCHANGE WELCOMES WOMAN
(By Associated Press)
THE HAGUE, May 21.—For the first time a woman has appeared on the floor of the Amsterdam stock exchange. She is Miss H. W. Deterding, representing an Amsterdam firm of stock brokers. When she made her initial appearance the members of the exchange gave three cheers and presented her with a huge bouquet.

STATE DENIES 'REACH BALM'

(By Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, May 27.—The fact that Mrs. Elsie L. Lykins, formerly Lodi telephone operator, called several hundred times a day to a switchboard to connect callers with numbers is not sufficient proof that she developed permanent heart trouble, according to a recent decision of the Industrial Accident Commission, which ruled against her claim for compensation.

Mrs. Lykins' application for compensation, filed through the Industrial Accident Commission, is said to be the first on record in the United States wherein a telephone operator claimed she suffered heart trouble brought on by reaching with her hand to "plug in" calls. While working for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company at Lodi, according to her testimony before the commission, she worked on "position No. 12." This position, she testified, had a longer reach than those of the other girls.

"I sometimes averaged as many as 250 calls an hour at number 12," she testified. "My arms got tired and I know that my heart was affected by the reaching."

The attorneys for the telephone company stated they were not opposing Mrs. Lykins' claim with any idea

SCHOOL DISTRICT BONDS ABSORBED LOCALLY

LA CRESCENTA, May 21.—The Montrose State bank offered the highest premium and secured the entire $45,000 bond issue recently voted by the Crescenda school district, which will make it possible to begin work on the new school building in the near future. The improvements and expenditure will include the purchase of land and the building of a three-room unit in Montrose, build two new class rooms to the present building in La Crescenda, installation of heating plants, additional school equipment and furniture for both schools and the improvement of the school grounds.

LA CRESCENTA P. T. A. ELECTS OFFICERS

LA CRESCENTA, May 21.—The election of officers for the ensuing year marked the regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers last Thursday afternoon at the School Auditorium. Officers unanimously elected were: Mrs. C. W. Angier, president; Mrs. Charles Reinhard, first president; Mrs. Gavin Telfer, second vice-president; Mrs. A. D. Atkins, recording secretary; Mrs. H. R. Tritt, corresponding secretary; Mrs. C. Hanson, treasurer; Mrs. C. Burt, historian.

A vote of thanks was given the retiring president, Mrs. S. B. Young, who has served in that capacity for the past four years. The association has done splendid work this past year and the retiring officers are to be commended on their showing and the splendid growth of the organization. The program, the most enjoyable feature of the afternoon, was given by Mrs. Charles Turk, her subject being, "Our Flag."

Mr. and Mrs. Ruedy are guests at the home of George Thompson, 1817 Gardena avenue.

NEW STAR SEEN IN "GARRISON'S FINISH"

Madge Bellamy's progress in motion pictures has been swift and meteoric. In less than eighteen months she has climbed to the top through her clever work in only three releases.

When Miss Bellamy forsook the stage and ventured into film and motion pictures, she was a novice. Now she has eclipsed her past brilliant record as Jack Pickford's reading lady in his first Allied Producers' and Distributors' Corporation picture, "Garrison's Finish," at the Glendale Theatre and in which she has taken several forward steps which seem to insure her all the more of the stellar career no artist would spurn.

Miss Bellamy came to the screen well equipped with dramatic knowledge. In the very first picture she appeared in she was included under the term "all-star" so satisfactory was her artistry.

Miss Bellamy was born in Hillsboro, Texas, and was educated at Houston. She has brown eyes and a wealth of reddish brown hair. Physically she is small and trim, weighing only a few pounds over the hundred mark.

It seems a foregone conclusion that the majority of the fans who see her in Jack Pickford's "Garrison's Finish" will agree that she is to be one of the most important of stars of an early next moon.

LA CRESCENTA PUPILS' WORK DRAWS PRAISE

Exhibition Visited by Big Gathering of Local Residents

The splendid exhibit of the work done during the past year by the pupils of the La Crescenda School in the valley last Thursday and certainly reflected great credit on the instructors. The exhibit included work from all grades. Particularly interesting was the work done in manual training and art. A splendid exhibit of needle work by the seventh and eighth grades attracted much attention. All gave evidence of much talent among the pupils.

Mrs. Carrie Currier, who has been the house guest for several days of Mrs. A. R. Hildreth of 217 West Milford street, has returned to Santa Monica, where she makes her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. James Henderson.

A Personal Message to the Big Business Men of Southern California

ARTHUR LETTS, the owner of The Broadway Department Store, who died Friday, May 18, believed in Life Insurance, Especially Business Life Insurance.

At the time of his death he was carrying policies in 32 companies totaling $1,800,000 payable to his business, all of which was arranged for and placed by my office. This large line was promptly secured on account of the exceptional brokerage connection with the leading companies which I have made for clients who desire to carry lines of protection in excess of any one Company's limit.

Up to the time that the importance of Business Insurance was brought to Mr. Letts' attention—three years ago—he had never considered it necessary to carry any life insurance and had refused to buy the usual forms which were presented for his consideration. Immediately on recognizing the stabilizing value of this particular form of protection he bought Business Life Insurance in the following companies:

Aetna	$ 75,000	Travelers	$ 40,000	Equitable	$110,000
Union Central	45,000	National Life of U. S. A.	15,000	Provident Mutual	25,000
Mass. Mutual	50,000	Western Union	30,000	Lincoln National	100,000
Penn. Mutual	25,000	Berkshire	25,000	National Life of Vt.	25,000
Phoenix Mutual	50,000	Royal Union	15,000	Bankers Life of Iowa	75,000
International	50,000	Canada Life Assurance Co.	175,000	Northwestern Mutual	80,000
Northern Life	5,000	Mutual Benefit	60,000	Home	30,000
Mutual Life of New York	125,000	New England Mutual	40,000	Connecticut Mutual	60,000
Continental Assurance Co.	30,000	Fidelity Mutual	50,000	Pacific Mutual	100,000
Kansas City Life	10,000	Missouri State	115,000
Prudential	140,000	Union Central	5,000
Guardian	30,000

The Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company, being the first to learn of Mr. Letts' passing, paid $100,000 within six hours after his death.

THE SUPREME COURT

The Hearst efforts to destroy confidence in the supreme court continue. There is no probability that they will have effect. Doubtless the founders of the republic, in defining the duties of the tribunal, had considered the matter seriously. It is true that they lacked the counsel of Hearst. The assaults now being made at the instance of the individual mentioned are peculiarly despicable. They rest in large measure upon the circumstance that the chief justice is in receipt of an annuity established by Carnegie. This was established when Mr. Taft was a private citizen, with the distinction of having been President. He had the personal friendship of Carnegie, who in arranging a series of benefactions, named Mr. Taft on the list. There was at that time nothing to suggest that the beneficiary was to re-enter public life.

The attack is the intimation that the sum received by the jurist must corrupt him, and unfit him for the reaching of an impartial decision. In other words, it is the intimation that Mr. Taft, who has the confidence of the people of the whole country, is a dishonest man. If conditions could arise under which the judicial opinion could be swayed by a financial consideration, then Mr. Taft would be a dishonest man. The cutting off of the annuity could in no way change his moral status.

The base insinuations come with peculiarly bad grace from Hearst. In the war he had a correspondent in Berlin who was in receipt of a salary of $15,000 from the German government. As a result, or perhaps as an effect, under the guise of news he was sending German propaganda. This arrangement was both dishonest and dishonorable, as it was unethical, treacherous and un-American. The exposure doubtless caused some humiliation to the chief actors.

It is possible that Hearst regards that unholy compact as analogous to the situation against which his hired men are harping. Such conclusion on his part argues a grotesque lack of perception.

A TROUBLED WORLD

If there is comfort in the old aphorism that "the darkest hour is just before dawn," the world ought to be in mood to make the most of it.

There seems to be acute trouble in any direction in which the glance happens to be turned. Peace in Europe takes on the character of a rather dimly discerned hope. France in the Ruhr does not seem to be making definite progress. Hatred between the two peoples is as acute as though actual war were in progress. England staggers along bravely under a burden of debt. Italy is uncertain whether the grasp of Mussolini can be maintained, or whether his rule is desirable. Poland is under arms lest the bolshevik sweep down upon it. Even Switzerland has been drawn into controversy. In every nationality each other nationality think it deserves a potential foe. Conditions in China, as expressed by an outbreak of banditry so great that the government is unable to check it, are about as far as possible from encouraging. Even in America, busy and prosperous, the malcontent is raising a dissonant voice.

For years now Russia has been a poisonous cesspool, constantly overflowing. The inept and malign spirit that dominates the existing oligarchy, has been extended afar. Disrespect for law, for religion, for decent convention, has been taught deliberately. Emissaries have been sent abroad by the soviets to scatter the seeds of revolution. Americans, not understanding what they did, have helped promote a deadly propaganda. The effects are to be seen everywhere in India, in China; at home, expressed in senseless strikes and shrewdly financed agitation. But there remains the aphorism quoted above.

NO. 1,000,000

The increase of automobiles in California has necessitated issuance of license plate No. 1,000,000. No similar number is carried elsewhere. This state is at the head of the list. The reason for it is clear enough.

In many parts of the country, the automobile is used for only a part of the season. Where snows are frequent and deep, or where the cold is bitter, the machine goes into retirement. It may be used in large cities, the pavements being promptly cleared, but in winter most types of the vehicles ceased to be safe or convenient. In various sections the roads are not of a character to encourage automobiling in the months that rain, fall extensively, for the unpaved highway becomes a morass.

Out in this favored region the automobile is in active use throughout the year. There is no snow to interfere with it in any city. The roads stretching away in all directions are free from mud, solid and firm. Every driver is aware that with the coming of the first rains the loosened oil of the pavement affords the chance of skidding, and therefore is careful. After the oil has been washed off, this peril is minimized until the cautious driver has nothing to fear from it.

Southern California is an out-door community. The call of the mountains and the sea is constant. When the people have leisure they climb into the family automobile. It may be flivver or limousine, but it carries happy people, glad that they live under conditions so benign and so nearly ideal. They want to know every part of it. Hence license plate No. 1,000,000.

COLLEGE EDUCATION

The class just graduated from the University of California numbered 2318. These figures seem to answer the intimation that really a college education is not particularly valuable. Some who have missed the opportunity, and have succeeded in their chosen activities, hold such an opinion. They do not seem to have won the younger generation to endorsement. When a single class in a single educational institution numbers far over 2000, the opinion of young men and women may be regarded as having been placed on record. It is to be borne in mind that while the University of California has the largest student body, there are other schools of high standing, some of which are filled to the limit. Stanford university, the University of Southern California, Pomona college and Occidental college, are sending groups of graduates out into the business of life. The effect cannot be otherwise than beneficial. The training of the classroom and the campus, marked by contacts with ripened intellects, its social relationships, and its disciplinary restrictions, cannot fail to awaken ambitions, develop capacities, and broaden the mind. Here and there is the graduate whose experience seems to have been wasted, for he sinks back into whatever status had known him before. This may be ascribed to his own traits. There is a lethargic mentality that no opportunity appears able to awaken. Yet the graduate who seems to make no practical use of his education, is aware in many instances, that even fleeting touch with the storehouse of knowledge was good. He takes pride in having had it, and he is entitled to pleasing memories.

Only a woman is capable of transforming a yawn into a smile.

RIGHTS OF WAY

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Does it ever occur to women how many times they find their progress barred and their style cramped by "No thoroughfare" signs?

We vote, sisters, but it bids fair to be a long time before we may walk through life freely, much less speak freely, without bringing out somebody's "No thoroughfare" sign.

Take the matter of language. Wouldn't one suppose that women as well as men had a right of way clean through the English language? Why should not a woman make use of any word in the dictionary if the use of said word serves to help her convey her ideas to her audience?

Hold a moment before you say: "Of course she should," and then add: "And she does."

All right, try it. Omit vulgarity, which neither man or woman has a right to use and give a wide berth to profanity which is not language but sheer coarseness made audible. Having done this talk or write with the same freedom to which men treat themselves and you will face a shocked, at times even a horrified audience. You will be criticised here, there, and everywhere because "Ladies should not use such expressions."

Ask why and you will be told "They are not ladylike," which being interpreted means nothing less than an admission on the part of the critic that it is his conviction that women have no right of way across the language, but only a right of way through such portions of it as custom has hallowed to feminine use.

The expressions that shock the old-fashioned on the lips of women will on examination reveal themselves as those which men most commonly use to denote emphasis. No doubt the critics would be astonished if they were told that a woman can be emphatic and still retain her womanly qualities. Emphasis is one of the things that age long tradition has unconsciously assigned to men only.

A man may say of another "He is a liar," and nobody will be shocked; but let a woman say it and, no matter how true or how much deserved the accusation, nine people out of ten will be horrified because she did not use the ambiguous and rather silly expression "He told a story."

"Give him the devil," is an every day expression whereby men express their wish to have somebody get his just deserts. It is not profane, nor obscene and it is dynamic, brief and expressive. Yet I recently heard a man denounce a woman who used the expression, saying that it was coarse and unladylike.

Pressed for a reason for his views he was unable to justify them. He could not claim that it was wrong or disrespectful to take the name of the old Nick in vain, and assuredly he could not object on the ground that it was sacrilegious. It was emphatic and, without knowing it, he objected to a woman using the language of emphasis. She was infringing a right of way, that was all.

Trespass was the root and ground of her offending. The man was astonished when he was told this, for unconsciously he resented not the expression itself but the assumption by a woman of the right to the full and free use of the English language.

Isn't it funny?

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

"NEITHER-NOR"

(Find the error in this article)

You say "Neither Frank nor Henry is responsible." You will note that the verb is in the singular number, a grammatical requirement after a subject, the parts of which are connected by the conjunction "neither-nor." Example: Neither friend nor foe is interested in the result.

Of course, if each one of the parts was plural, the verb would be plural; as, Neither picks nor shovels are necessary.

When the first noun is plural and the second singular, the verb should be singular; as, Neither nails nor a hammer is desired.

When the first noun is singular and the second plural, the verb should be plural; as, Neither man nor his doctrines are to be tolerated.

The foregoing rules hold good also when the conjunction either-or is used to connect the parts of the subject; as, Either a saw or an ax is what we need.

Vocabulary
The accent in connection with the word forebear is on the latter syllable. The definition of the word is an ancestor; as, He will never forget the traditions of his forebears.

Queries
B. F. Meyers writes, "I follow with both interest and pleasure the 'Find the error' problems."

He continues, "Will you kindly advise whether or not the following underlined words are correct as used: 'I am enclosing to you herewith certificate No. — for substitution in place of certificate No. —.'"

In compliance with your request recommended: I am enclosing herewith certificate No. — as a substitute for No. —. Complying with your request, we are mailing —.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

A man one time had a box of tools.
Tools for building.
For hewing and planing and smoothing and hammering and driving screws and mortising and doing all manner of things.

JAMES W. FOLEY

He was prepared for almost any emergency or necessity as far as tools were concerned.

If the roof leaked he had tools for repairing it.

If a chair needed mending he had the tools with which to do it.

He was prepared to dig a ditch, chop wood, hang a picture, repair a roof, hang a door, build a house, mend a leak in the water pipe or do any one of a thousand useful things.

That is, he was prepared as far as tools were concerned.

But somehow he failed to make good use of them.

He mended a roof and it leaked more than before.

He hung a door and it was crooked.

He drove a nail and it fell out again.

He dug a ditch and it was all angles and twists and curves and he could not lay a pipe in it.

And one day he stopped and wondered.

He had strength.

He had good tools.

He knew what needed to be done.

But somehow he could not do anything as it should be done.

For he lacked experience.

A knowledge that would enable him to use the tools he had.

Then he discovered that tools alone are not enough.

A man might have all the tools in the world and be able to do good work with none of them.

For the smith alone can make good use of the tools of the smith.

And so with the carpenter and the plumber and the plasterer and the surgeon and the lawyer and the preacher.

The student and the pupil have tools.

The tools of knowledge.

Arithmetic and geography and reading and logarithms and calculus and history and all that.

But he must understand that they are merely tools.

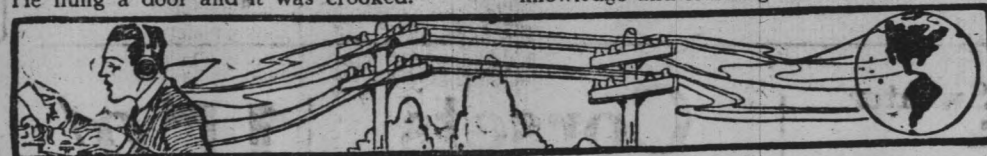

It is for the student and the pupil to learn to make use of them.

And if he does not learn to make use of the tools that learning has given him, he will be in the position of the man with the box of tools who did not know how to use them.

They will be of little value to him.

Bright and sharp as they may be.

So a vital part of education is to learn what knowledge and learning are for.

Songs of the Poets

In Foreign Parts—By Laura E. Richards

When I lived in Sa Singapore,

It was something of a bore

To receive the bulky Begums who came trundling to my door;

They kept getting into tangles

With their bangle-bangle-bangles,

And the tiger used to bite them as he sat upon the floor.

When I lived in Timbuctoo,

Almost every one I knew

Used to play upon the sackbut, singing "toodle-doodle-do,"

And they made ecstatic salads,

And consumed seductive balads,

Made of chicory and hickory and other things that grew.

When I lived at Rotterdam,

I possessed a spotted ram,

Who would never feed on anything but holly-

hocks and ham;

But one day he butted down

All the magnates of the town,

So they slew him, though I knew him to be gentle as a lamb.

But!

When I got to Kandahar,

It was very, very far,

And the people came and said to me, "How very plain you are!"

So I sailed across the foam,

And I toddle-waddled home,

And no more I'll go a roving beyond the harbor bar.

THE LOOK OF FREEDOM

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THAT face is the most beautiful which gives expression to the strongest, most wholesome, and most human instincts.

One of our deepest instincts is the impulse toward individuality. This is the love of freedom.

We are all confined more or less, and such a thing as absolute personal liberty cannot be realized in civilized society. But the intelligent soul can find a means for the right expression of its personality.

The Lady Swaythling, a prominent social figure in England, recently said: "I have often studied the faces of lovely feminine social leaders as they look laughingly out from magnificent portraits. Poise, assurance, culture, beauty; figure seated erectly on soft divan or standing in queenly elegance. Typical social leaders in typical society portraits. But I can't help thinking how much they evidence the element of restraint. They look, many of them, like captives, beautiful slaves to conventional society."

Freedom has its dangers just as life has its dangers. There is no advantage and little joy where there is no danger.

Of course, unrestrained indulgence in one's desires results in disorder and eventually in misery. Too often the cry, "Live your own life!" is made the excuse for excess and folly. But there is something to be said in favor of living one's own life for all that.

All happiness, or the best kind of happiness, consists in the forthputting of one's energies, and to live a life where is is continually hampered must cripple the soul.

The best rule is to live one's own life, but to live it so as not to harm others. In the higher reaches of enjoyment our greatest satisfaction is found in bringing joy to others. Yet there are many slaves to convention, the artificial demands of one's station in life, who are little better than animals condemned to a treadmill.

Of all looks that flash forth from human faces to signal their messages to other souls there is no look so inspiring as the look of freedom.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

President Harding favors enforcement of the prohibition law. It would be a strange and anomalous thing were he to do otherwise. That law is part of the constitution. The President is under oath to support the constitution. Every citizen is under legal and moral obligation to support it.

There are parts of the country, notably New York city, where the attempted enforcement is a farce. The efforts have no support from local or state authorities. Anybody who has the price may buy any sort of intoxicating liquor. The effect is all for evil. The disrespect for all law is becoming evident.

In a general way the people who would drink if they had a chance to do so with safety, that is to say, without violating the law, and without danger of being poisoned with spurious brands, resent the defiance that other people are permitted to show. They argue that sauce for the goose ought to be sauce for the gander. The sense of justice is outraged at the spectacle of the New York profligate drinking at will, and the citizen who never was in the habit of drinking much, deprived of even that little.

Despite the many violators, the country is becoming more in favor, if not of the principle of prohibition, at least of the policy of sustaining the principle.

To the thoughtful citizen the constitution of the republic has a meaning. The spectacle of it as it is waived at will by this or that coterie, is irritating. People who obey the statutes do not want others to be immune to its restraint. If all men are not equal, they certainly ought to be equal in the particular that a constitutional requirement restraining one individual should apply with similar force to his neighbor. To play favorites is no part of the business of the law.

One of the mysteries of letters is why people who had read "Main Street" ever happened to read "Babbitt" by the same author. The two books represent double zero in literary values. It is a little late to mention "Babbitt" now, since eastern critics all had their fling at it long ago. However, the mistake of quoting it has been made in this office, inciting the hearer to ire.

According to Sinclair Lewis, a typical American city is merely a collection of ungrammatical hoboes, urban society a tissue of silly and pernicious pretense, business the contest of rogues, and hypocrisy the dominant trait. "Babbitt," the man selected as representative of the average citizen is a rascal and a fool. Not a single character portrayed in the book was worth portrayal.

Lewis has the faculty of making existence appear as a pitiful and futile span. The reader may be influenced momentarily, but readily shakes off the spell, and wonders what excuse there may be for the outpour of such trash.

Were one inclined to bet, he might with tolerable safety lay a wager that the case against Upton Sinclair will fall.

Of course, the earnest Sinclair was foolish to mix up in an I. W. W. tumult staged as a labor controversy. He let his enthusiasm run away with him. Nevertheless to read the constitution in the open, may only with difficulty, it is conjectured, be construed into an offense against the law.

There was a time not so long ago when Austria was supposed to have been effaced, but there was some mistake about it. Austria seems, by application of common sense, to have come back; not to its former grandeur of course, but to a point a long way from extinction.

The stealing of an airplane wherewith to take a joyride introduces a novel form of crime. It will be long before it has become as common as the stealing of the automobile.

Almost any thief can make away with a flivver, but to annex an airplane takes more skill and nerve than possessed by the average crook.

New Yorkers are said to be frowning upon the rejuvenated Mr. Willard as a figure in the pugilistic ring. They are fearful that some low-browed fighter might hit the old scrapper so hard as to hurt him.

Sympathy for a prizefighter does not seem to be required even of the humane. Let him get knocked into the middle of next week, and welcome.

While laundrymen were in session it is to be hoped they discussed the subject "How to shorten the life of the linen collar." It is possible that to term the collar "linen" is flattery, but there is no harm in being polite.

Sometimes the collar of the present is able to endure two visits to the laundry. In the days before the war it might have gone a dozen times. Something has happened to it. It lacks stability, often tearing when the gentlest effort is made to button it after it has been to the laundry twice.

With just a little more effort it might be easy to ruin the collar by a single laundry experience.

Citizens interested in the discouragement of crime suggest that city and county police work in harmony. In the past rivalry has been so fierce that either side would rather have had a criminal escape than caught by the other.

This is only one of many excellent suggestions made by the crimes-commission.

Bandits or supposed bandits shot at a rancher as he went unsuspectingly along the public highway.

But has a rancher, or other person not a bandit, any right to be on the highway?

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Not so long ago I watched a rich man buy a farm. "All my life," he said, "I have wanted to own a farm. I come of farming stock. Now that I am old and fat and rheumatic I do not pine to rise in the morning to do the chores or spend the pleasant summer days chasing a double shovel plough through the corn rows. But I want to live on a farm."

When he was a youngster he left his home in New York state with $35 sewed to his undershirt and a firm determination to become the owner of a large tract of the land a beneficent government had offered settlers. He filed on a fine quarter-section in Minnesota and put up a sod house and went to town to get a job. That was permitted in those days. Very few settlers could live on the fine, fresh air of the prairie while proving up.

"When I came back to my quarter," he said, "I found a large, hairy jumper in possession of it. He ran me off with a gun."

The future rich man went to court about it, of course. But the jumper had perjured testimony and possession and the case dragged on and on. The future rich man knew he was in the right and for a time he spent every spare dollar and hour in contesting the jumper. By and by he woke up.

"This," said he to himself, "is costing me more money than I can afford. I am in the right, but the time I move myself in the right I'll be in debt over my ears."

So he gave up the claim to the jumper and got a better job. That canted his young energies toward a new line of thought. Eventually it made him rich. If he had been game and persistent and fought for his rights and got that beautiful quarter-section—

It is the prettiest farm in Minnesota today—

He might be the owner of 160 acres of land today. Whereas he stayed in congress until he got tired and has now bought a farm which makes his relinquished quarter look like a sandpile.

Wall street states the case in a few words: "Never throw good money after bad."

NEWS AND VIEWS OF BURBANK AND ITS ENVIRONS

BURBANK PEOPLE ATTEND
BENEFIT DANCE IN L. A.
PHILHARMONIC CONCERT HALL

Large Number Enjoy Novelty Dancing Entertainment in Which Cecelia Mae Fischer Gives Two Solo Aesthetic Dances

More than 100 Burbank people attended the matinee benefit fancy dancing entertainment at the Philharmonic hall in Los Angeles Saturday afternoon. The proceeds of the affair will go to the Orthopedic hospital. The fete was given by the Pearl Keller School of Dancing. Little crippled children from the hospitals were guests on the main floor and the guests in the balcony were the orphans. They were enchanted by the pretty dances.

Burbank people were especially interested because Cecelia Mae Fischer, daughter of the city treasurer, and Mrs. Charles B. Fischer appeared in six dances. Little Miss Fischer has established a reputation for her skill in artistic achievement in dancing and in music, in the many entertainments given at home.

It was difficult to tell which dance was the most pleasing to the children. Cecelia Mae, lovely in a white lace and satin bridal costume, with veil and orange blossoms, presented the Bride's dance in charming style. She was attended by eight bridesmaids all clad in pink. Two flower girls in fluffy pink carried gold baskets full of flowers.

A large white wedding bell with streamers out to the corners of the stage made a pretty background for the dainty dancer.

The Russian solo dance of little Miss Fischer tied with the Bride's dance for beauty, with the audience. White satin brocade, elaborately trimmed with white fur, pearls and rhinestones, with a wonderful high standing head dress of pearls and gems dazzled everyone. White kid tasseled Russian boots completed the costume.

The first dance in which she appeared was the Old-Fashioned Garden dance. The group of girls wearing the old-fashioned hoop skirt dress and pantaloons of yellow silk and lace, each carrying parasol and fan, formed an appealing picture. Attractive was the stately rhythmic dance in the old fashioned garden. The California Poppy Girl chorus was a dashing number, full of sparkling life. The yellow and white sport costumes, with the girls carrying tennis rackets transported the onlookers to the joys of outdoor life.

For the Indian dance the chorus girls all wore white felt costumes with Indian figures and carried bows and arrows and interpreted the feeling of the conquering young Indian chief.

Thinking tambourines and vividly bright colors told of the gay gypsy life. The weird music of the wandering tribe found beautiful expression in the graceful motion of the dancers.

Big Crowd Promised for Fathers and Sons' Banquet

The fourth annual Fathers and Sons' banquet given under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. at the Methodist church Tuesday night promises to be one of the big affairs of the year. Especially is it regarded so by the men and boys. The annual dinners have proven to be a joyous time for the family. The spirit of comradeship and friendliness between the young and old is something that is quite treasured by them.

The 65 guests of the Kiwanis club from Los Angeles will be a new feature this year. The Hi-Y club of Burbank are planning enthusiastically to give them a good time.

An exceptionally good program has been arranged. The out of town speakers will be Dr. Merle Smith, pastor of the Methodist church in Pasadena. Director of Boys' Work Waterman of Long Beach is an entertainer who can keep the boys convulsed with laughter as is known from experience, for he has been recently.

The high school orchestra will play many numbers and there will be community singing.

Reports today were that nearly all the tickets were sold.

EARLY HORSES'
HOOFES VARIED

[By Associated Press]
CORVALLIS, Ore., May 21.—Three types of horses existed in the Oregon country prior to its occupation by the white man, asserts J. B. Horner, professor of history at the Oregon Agricultural College here. They were the little three-toed horse of the uplands and the hoof horse of the lowlands and plains, and later, the cayuse pony. All of them have been studied carefully by experts.

In Oregon the three-toed horse ranged from the size of a dog to that of an antelope. Some of the earlier species had four toes on the front hoof, it is believed, while in certain localities of North America they have been known to have had five.

"Indian ponies of the Pacific northwest are descendants of the mustangs that ranged farther north," explained Professor Horner, "and are called cayuse ponies from the prominence of the Cayuse Indians, who were in possession of large herds of them when Oregon was first explored and settled by the white man."

Girls think that old bachelors don't understand women, but widows know better.

CLUB WOMEN GIRLS TO BE WANT LARGE ATTENDANCE
P. T. A. TOPIC

Election at Club Rooms Tuesday Afternoon to Interest All

The Burbank Women's club will have an annual election Tuesday afternoon at the club rooms and every member is asked to be present. Mrs. J. A. Johnson, present president, has refused to have her name on the ballots for re-election. Mrs. Walter Fisher is expected to be elected.

The position holds increased interest this year as a new club house is to be built and the office holds until after the biennial meeting in Los Angeles in 1924 and the Burbank club desires to have a president who will attend the meetings regularly and represent the club in a worthy manner as well as one who can bring back from the convention ideas and suggestions that will be helpful.

It is expected that only a few of the old officers will accept re-election so that next year will see an entirely new staff in the cabinet.

Girls, girls, girls, are to be the town talk next Thursday afternoon at the meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association at the high school auditorium. Parents, as a rule are very loving people, so probably the general theme of the hour will be about the "very wonderful" qualities of Burbank girls. The problems of the parents in dealing with the girls, the girls' problems in dealing with the parents and school will be considered. Miss Katherine Allen, dean of the high school girls, will give an address telling some "inside" versions about the life of the young daughters. Miss Rebecca Dies, girl scout head, is to tell some things which she has observed about girls.

"To put the right climax to the entire affair the girls' glee club will show the association just what girls can do in the line of music."

"Boys" had the center of attention at the meeting last month and a champion of the girls arose and requested that "Girls" be the subject for consideration at the next meeting because she herself was a girl once, and so she is interested in seeing the 1923 girls have consideration.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS
President American Society for Thrift

THE people of the United States are in the midst of a rising tide of prosperity. And there are good reasons why these conditions should emphasize the necessity of individual thrift.

Gigantic processes of readjustment are taking place. In many of the trades and industries wages are increasing, stimulating a new era of living.

Conditions such as these foster extravagant practices on the part of many, while with many others whose earnings have not increased, there comes a constantly narrowing margin between income and necessary expenditures.

Periods of inflation have invariably brought the hysteria of over-spending and speculation through which many eventually lost the benefits of the nation's prosperity and the whole business structure of the country was adversely affected.

During periods of increased profits every well managed business institution builds up its reserves and fortifies itself in every possible way against the possible lean periods of the future. The same practices should apply with the individual.

It present conditions have brought about a great increase in your personal income take full advantage of this occasion to build up your reserves.

If, on the other hand, the constant rise of living costs is greater than any increase you may be able to obtain in your income it behooves you all the more to eliminate every possible item of expenditure which represents waste. Our present period of prosperity will be prolonged in proportion to the extent with which the people of the nation adhere to prudent habits of living.

CAMERA FANS TO FORM FIELD
CLUB

Burbank Snap Shooters Plan to Outdo Prairie Club

Camera fans are to have their day. A new club is to be formed by the people who are forever hunting up something new to snap. Any one can join who wants to. There will be no limit as to age, ability or finances.

Amateur photographers have found on comparing pictures that the thing is even more exciting than counting up golf scores. They also marvel at the open field of opportunity before them. Mountains, canyon streams and historic sites right at the front, side and rear doors of Burbank shout to the fan for registration. With others and an instructor along it will be an easy matter to find just the progress that is being made in learning the best way to take a picture to get the best results.

The first trip will be Saturday, June 2. After that the Camera club plans to go every week on some hike for field work. Eventually it may out rival the famous prairie club of Chicago.

TO DEMONSTRATE

Mrs. Grace Lovejoy, head of the school, in speaking at the evening, said: "The children's department of the school under the capable direction of Miss Vera Morrow, has grown extensively because of the class work and has become an important factor in the development of the school."

This demonstration Tuesday evening will show some of the things the children are learning and will be especially interesting to all students of music and parents.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone who is interested, by the school.

DANZIG REPORTS PROSPERITY

PRESBYTERIANS'
EUROPEAN WORK IS REPORTED

INDIANAPOLIS, May 21.—Dr. Henry B. Masters of Philadelphia today reported to the Presbyterian general assembly as American secretary of the Alliance of Reformed Churches. Throughout the World Holding the Presbyterian System.

After reviewing what has been accomplished in the sending of clothing and shoes to Europe, and fixing approximately at $42,300,000 the sum sent abroad by the constituent churches, the report, referring to enlarging field of evangelization says in part:

"More than half of the 100,000 of our brethren in Russia live along the Volga river in southeastern Russia, where the famine is worst. And now another fact is beginning to loom up—that there is a great movement in European Russia, east and southeast of Moscow, reaching to the Ural mountains, where hundreds of thousands who have left the Greek church have formed themselves into congregations called Presbyterians, because they have elders. If they need help, shall we refuse them? More than this we cannot say at present, we must wait for the developments of God's providence. But we ought to pray for them as they struggle to the light."

Dr. Henry B. Masters said that that more than one-half of the Presbyterian churches had a membership of less than 100 people made necessary a pension system sustained by the larger and richer churches. The Presbyterian church was a pioneer in such a pension system but it was inadequate.

The relief department of the board needed $1,500,000 a year for income for retired ministers, widows and orphans of ministers, and for support of the three Presbyterian homes and the tuberculosis sanitarium. The board needed another $500,000 a year for the church's share of annuities in the sustentation department, which is one-fifth supported by the previous savings of the annuities.

Dr. Masters pleaded for an endowment fund sufficient to care for the growing demands of pensioners, and asked the general assembly to set up a new laymen's movement to raise an additional endowment of $15,000,000 during the next three years.

The First Frock of Summer Bears the Early Bird as its Coat of Arms

If you had gone to Palm Beach you would have been back by this time anyway, and all the delicious thrill of choosing the first light summery clothes of the season would be over.

Now, with nothing but wintry twills and dark silks in your back-ground you may start out with a fair field and all to conquer in the way of spring and summer frocks. The pictured frock should make the first victory a simple matter. The French have not deserted that love of several seasons—the cape. Their latest works confirm its favor. This one is a rather debonair affair that may disclose a round bare arm—if the occasion demands. It is made of white crepe, self-lined and matches the border, the yoke and the enveloping sash of the dress.

The dress itself is a fairly long-shouldered sleeveless affair with a round neck and a few gathers in the shirred skirt. The basic material is Crinkled Crepe, delightfully printed in red and black with the early bird and his attendant branches. Butterflies and a few conventionalized red flowers complete the print design, a delightful new product from the great looms at South Manchester, Connecticut.

PENTECOST SERMON
PREACHED BY REV.
HENRY O. KRINGLE

Rev. Henry O. Kringle of the Concordia Lutheran congregation, delivered a Pentecost sermon on the immediate result of the outpouring of the Holy Ghost. The result culminated in the establishment of the Christian church. Three points were explained: the true members of the church, its true members, and its true foundation. The speaker said in part:

"Our Gospel of today, John 14, 23-25, does not refer to the great historical fact of Pentecost day. It does not tell of the wonderful outpouring of the Holy Ghost. It goes a step farther and tells of the fruit and result of the great miracle of Pentecost. The great miracle of Pentecost is narrated in the Epistle of the day. The Lord Jesus had told his disciples before His Ascension that they were not to depart from the city of Jerusalem, but to remain until they should receive the Holy Ghost.

"It was on a Sunday morning, the tenth day after His Ascension, when they were all assembled in a certain building in Jerusalem, most complete the print design, a delightful new product from the great looms at South Manchester, Connecticut.

The broad white crepe hat is virgin except for a wreath of overlapping scarlet poppies.

Suddenly there was a peculiar sound from Heaven as of a tornado approaching. The noise was that of a rushing mighty wind, which descended upon the place where the disciples were and filled the house. The people of Jerusalem must certainly have felt alarmed and must have rushed out into the streets to find out what was the trouble. The sound led them to the temple. Perhaps they expected to find the festive structure damaged by the force of the wind. They entered and, behold, not only was the building intact, but a sight greeted them such as they had never seen. There stood the disciples of Jesus, the believers in Christ, both men and women, and upon the head of each of them was to be seen a living flame in the shape of tongues as of fire, fire burning and yet not consuming. Amaze and awe seized upon the people at what they saw; but still greater was their amazement at what they heard. These simple, uneducated men, filled with the Holy Ghost, were preaching; they were proclaiming the great deeds of God and preaching the repentance of sins and faith in Jesus Christ. And the greatest marvel was that they spoke languages which they had never learned, so that every foreigner could hear of the wonderful works of God in his own tongue.

"This, my friends, is the great historical fact of the day as recorded in the Epistle. But what was the immediate result? The founding of the Christian church. On the day the first Christian congregation was formed in the city of Jerusalem, and not less than 3000 souls were added at once as a result of the great miracle. I say, therefore, that our Gospel goes a step farther, for it evidently treats of the church of Jesus Christ.

"According to the Divine Word, the entire human family is divided into two classes of men: children of the world, and children of God. The one class is the world and the other class is the church of Jesus Christ; and there is no third class of men. You must either be a member of the church of Jesus Christ or a member of the world. You must either be walking among those who are bound for eternal damnation, or among those who are making for eternal life.

"But how many of you know whether you are walking in the narrow path? How many of you know whether you are a true member of the church of Jesus Christ? Jesus tells us in the Gospel, 'If a man shall not love his neighbor, as himself, he will not love me; and he will not love me, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him.'"

"For Christ's word is properly the Word of the Gospel, the saving truth, whereby God offers us the benefits of Christ and works in us acceptance thereof. Those who reject the Word in unbelief are not members of the church of Christ. But, those who receive the word of the Gospel and keep it, believe what it teaches, confide in its promises, follow its guidance, they, and they only, love Jesus, and they are the members of the church of Christ. In other words, as God tells us, 'Whosoever believeth in Him shall not perish, but shall have everlasting life.'"

REV. BROOKS GIVES
ANSWERS TO MANY QUESTIONS SUNDAY

An interesting session of the men's brotherhood of the Presbyterian church was held at the city hall Sunday morning when the teacher, Keith L. Brooks, of Eagle Rock, gave the time to answering a number of Bible questions propounded by members of the class and growing out of some recent lessons. The teacher stated that he would answer no questions that could not be clearly answered from the Scriptures. Many of the questions grew out of a recent lesson on the second chapter of Acts, which relates to the outpouring of the Holy Spirit, which was accompanied by a manifestation of the gift of tongues. The teacher had stated that this Pentecostal gift was not an incoherent babbling but was understood by people from various nations who were present, and was a means of giving wings to the gospel.

Asked if there was a difference between this manifestation and the gift exercised in the Corinthian church called "unknown tongues," Mr. Brooks stated that there was a difference, and read the 14th chapter of First Corinthians. He showed that it was an ecstatic experience expressing emotions of hearts that were so full they could find no language to express their feelings. The Apostle Paul immediately saw the danger and laid down rigid rules as to its exercise. He taught them that if their words could not be interpreted they should cease to speak in public and have it alone between themselves and God. In no case was there to be confusion in the assembly, and any loss of self-control Paul declared an evidence that the manifestation was not of God.

Mr. Brooks was then asked if believers were required to speak in tongues as an evidence of having received the Spirit's power. He showed from I Cor. 12:28 that this gift is mentioned last in the list of spiritual gifts. Paul plainly states in I Cor. 14:5 that it was not one of the best gifts, and that speaking God's message in an intelligent way was far better. He showed that all Spirit-filled believers did not have this gift in the early church, and that other gifts were considered by Paul of far greater importance. All true believers, he declared, had the gift of the Spirit, but this was to be distinguished from the fullness of the Spirit, which results from intelligent yielding of the life to God's control.

Could God give the gift of tongues today, he was asked. From I Cor. 12:7-11 he showed that God distributed such gifts according to His own will. However, he stated it had not been God's order since apostolic times to bestow this gift upon the men whom the Spirit had used in the greatest way to win souls. The purpose of the manifestation in the early church was shown from I Cor. 12:23 to have been a sign to the Jews of their approaching dispersion. Paul's quotation was shown to be from Isa. 28:11, a prophecy that tongues would be a special sign to the Jews, and as stated by Paul in I Cor. 14:23, Gentile unbelievers, beholding such manifestations would say "Ye are mad."

Answering the questions as to the particular danger of such manifestations, Mr. Brooks referred to prophecies foretelling delusions and spiritual counterfeits in the last days. "One is on dangerous ground," he said, "when he starts in seeking physical sensations. These experiences usually follow the repetition of certain words and phrases entirely apart from the deliberate volition of the person. It is easy to get the tongue detached from the heart. People let their minds become blank and throw their bodies open to exterior powers. Then when they lose control of themselves, they think their experience has been of God. God does not ordain that Christians should employ the same laws by which clairvoyants invite spirits. If one is seeking spiritual power the only safe method is to follow the Scripture plan."

The professor was putting the finishing touches to his new concrete pathway. Jenny, aged six, had been watching the proceedings with great interest, and at length, deeming the time had come for trial, started to cross before the mixture was dry. When the professor displayed his just anger a neighbor overheard:

"Why professor, I thought you liked children."

"So I do, in the abstract," the professor replied, "but not in the concrete."

Little Albert J. lived with his father and mother in a large house. His father sold the house and put up a flat building on an adjoining lot. When the family moved into their new home, Albert ran across the street exclaiming to a neighbor, "Oh, Mrs. Smith, we don't live in the big house any more. We live next door to ourselves."

ANGELUS RANGES INTRODUCED TO GLENDALE

Branch of L. A. Firm Will Bring Complete Line of Stoves Here

The Angelus Range Works opened its doors in Glendale Saturday, having secured a location at 117 West Harvard. J. V. Longe, experienced business man of Los Angeles, is to be manager of the store, which is a branch of the Los Angeles firm.

The Angelus Range Works is making a specialty of the Angelus range, which is manufactured in California. The main factory for this stove is now located at Oakland, but a new plant is to be erected in the near future at Culver City.

This line of stoves, and others, which will be carried by the Angelus Range Works, will be shipped to the store direct from the factory, thereby eliminating the middleman and enabling the firm to offer lower prices on their stoves.

A shipment of refrigerators and heaters is also expected soon. Mr. Longe states that at the present time, stoves will form the stock of the firm.

Mr. Longe, who now resides in Los Angeles, expects to move to Glendale as soon as he finds a suitable location.

BRITISH TRAWLERS ASK FOR GOVERNMENT AID
[By Associated Press]
LONDON, May 21.—"Unless government help comes quickly, many of the fishing companies of England will be ruined," is the opinion of the president of a big steam trawler company who is clamoring for protection. He says it no longer pays to run British trawlers because of the competition of German and Danish trawlers.

German fishermen, he says, have received such a hot reception in various British ports that they no longer try to dispose of their North Sea catches in them. They now transfer the fish to Danish trawlers and the Danish trawlers take them to British ports. The whole industry has been losing money, he declares, for two years, and unless something is done very soon every British trawler will have to be laid up.

FRESNO, Cal., May 21.—Constructed 15 miles from the point where it will span Finegold creek in this vicinity, a 90-foot steel bridge will be carried by rail over a 2.5 percent grade, if plans now being worked out by Thomas O. Russell, chief engineer of the Minaret and Western Railroad reach fruition. The bridge, when loaded on wheels, is expected to weigh 87 tons.

VALENCIA SHOW TO OPEN NEXT TUESDAY

King Tut Would Feel at Home in the Scenery Arranged

ANAHEIM, May 21.—In a blaze of glory reflecting the ancient splendor of old King Tut's palace by the Nile, the third annual California Valencia Orange show will open next Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. The two huge tents at Lemon avenue and Cypress street here are emblazoned with settings symbolical of Egypt in the days of the Pharaohs, eight gigantic sunbursts shedding a soft and resplendent glow over the beautiful fittings, including three mummies just like that Lord Carnarvon took from the tomb of King Tutankhamen in the Valley of the Kings near Luxor.

And amidst this gorgeous scene, Justice J. B. Cox, of Santa Ana, known far and wide as the "jailing jurist," the speed fatalist and the marrying justice of the southland's "Gretna Green," will marry a happy couple at 8 o'clock on Monday evening, May 28. He will shackle them with a ball and chain made from lovely Southern California roses and will pronounce upon them a life sentence in matrimony.

The bride will receive a handsome wedding ring, evening and street dresses and a bridal bouquet. To the bridegroom will be given $50 in cash wherewith to start the honeymoon. It is expected that more than 10,000 persons will see Judge Cox perform the ceremony, which will take place on the great stage with 20 instrumental artists from the Philharmonic orchestra playing Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" and two noted operatic singers giving appropriate solos.

Four watchmen are guarding the entrances of the California Orange show to see that the public gains no idea of the spectacular beauty that has been prepared for its delectation. The Egyptian motif prevails throughout and one of the finest things that will burst upon the amazed spectator's vision will be the mummies grouped about the 18-inch pillar near the entrance.

Around the top of the orange display cases will be a mural decoration, four feet deep and conceived which pictures scenes along the River Nile in the days of King Tutankhamen. It vividly shows ruined temples, stately palaces, the Sphinx, the pyramids and other architectural wonders in the cradle of civilization.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

Old Times—when we also were youngsters, and the world of our dreamings was rare; And the joys were so vivid and earnest, and even the hardships were fair; When our friendships were joyous as we were, and the gladness of living was new, And our joys were so rich and so many and our sorrows so light and so few.

't seemed all a world made for smiling, and hardly a corner for care, The years that went singing and dancing, with gladness enough and to spare. So we old fellows sit in the twilight, and hear, as a distant bell chimes, The voices and music and laughter that echo from out the Old Times.

charge of the spectacular pageant which is to depict the growth of the California Valencia Orange industry. Arrayed in striking costumes, these dancers will be one of the big features of the show, which opens May 22 and continues through Decoration day, May 30. Mr. Fraser and Herman Stern, chairman of the executive committee, have completed every detail for the great event and promise that it shall be superior to any orange show ever held in the United States. Every foot of display and industrial exhibition space has been sold and some remarkable exhibits will be found at the show, which will be resplendent in beauty throughout the two tremendous tents.

Vaudeville and animal acts, pageants, choral numbers and a diversified amusement program, changing daily, will be offered. The music will be the best obtainable, including opera singers and artists of the Philharmonic orchestra, the famous Los Angeles musical organization, and the show management promises that the concerts alone will be worth a long trip to hear.

Selig's trained motion picture jungle animals valued at $100,000 will be one of the principal amusements in the Joy Zone, where there will be many children's features and side shows.

A tent 130x430 feet will shelter the more than 200 exhibitors who will display among other things the latest models of pleasure cars, farm tractors and other motor power vehicles which are so essential to life in the sunny southland.

So all aboard for Anaheim and the California Valencia Orange show.

INTERESTING WORK AT SOUTHWEST MUSEUM

The Eugenesis club of the Southwest Museum will again meet next Tuesday afternoon in the museum at 2 o'clock. The program arranged under the joint supervision of the museum and Mrs. Helen E. Girvin, chairman of the club, consists of a child song lecture recital by Frances Wright, associate professor of public school music of the University of California, southern branch, interpolated by classical dancing by Helen Girvin, young daughter of Mrs. Girvin.

Mrs. Dessa M. Fultz will speak on the "Art of Telling Stories to Children," while Miss Ione Morrison of the Los Angeles public library will present a brief talk on appropriate books for children.

Interested mothers are cordially invited to attend and enjoy these informal talks that are followed by an informal tea and conversation. Members of the Southwest Museum and their friends are cordially invited to attend the next members' night to be held next Thursday evening, May 24, at 8 o'clock. The program to be presented is both educational and attractive, as Dr. Robert G. Cleland, lecturer, head of the history department of Occidental college, will speak on the "International Aspects of California History."

Preceding Dr. Cleland's address, Professor Lewis A. Kerwin, assisted by Gloria Hopkins, Jessie Spitzer, Norman Mann, Edwin John Albright, Edith Segal, Chester and Charlotte Schlyen, Cecyl Jones, Dolores Palethorpe, Buddy Abbott and Marie Louise Riesling will present a most charming program of instrumental music, song and dances.

The museum will be glad to furnish guest cards to those interested and wishing to attend.

And the mining prospectus gets the coin while the bad-luck story is bumping the bumps.
